Shari Brownfield and Monay Olson nominated for entrepreneur award

By Jennifer Dorsey Jun 25, 2020 0

Shari Brownfield gets election information and a sample ballot while registering to vote Thursday at the Teton County Administration Building. Brownfield, who became a U.S. Citizen less than an hour before registering to vote, said a major reason she wanted to become naturalized was to vote in the upcoming presidential election.

When the Wyoming Council for Women announces its Woman Entrepreneur of the Year on Friday, the name might be one from the Tetons.

Jackson Hole business owners Shari Brownfield and Monay Olson are among the more than a dozen women from around the state who were nominated for the award.

Brownfield, who was also a nominee last year, owns Shari Brownfield Fine Art, and Olson operates the Elk Refuge Inn, Jackson Lodging Company and Premier Green Cleaning.

Other nominees include:

- Emi Domot-Reilly, Rivera Lodge Bed and Breakfast and Nested West, Pinedale.
- Tina Angelovic, Touch of Class Floral, Rock Springs
- Sharron Kilpatrick, Shamrock Audio and Video, Cheyenne.
- Sarah Mikesell Growney, The Thistle, a bookstore in Cody.
- Eva Szkultecki, Cody Dug Up Gun Museum.
- Denise Webster, Coal Train Coffee Depot, Rock Springs.
- Carley Applegate, Epsilon Health Solutions, Casper.
- Brook Githens, Life Steps of Wyoming, Sheridan.
- Britney Wallesch, Black Dog Animal Rescue, Cheyenne.
- Bobbi Wade, Blue Sky Sage Horseback Riding Retreats, Big Piney.
- Amber Travsky, Real West, in Laramie;
- Alexis "Lexie" Garrett of Alexis Drake, a Cheyenne business that makes handbags and accessories.
- Angela Gaensslen, Joe's Liquor, Rock Springs.
